

"Lindy" Lands At Schenectady

Left Curtis Field at 10:10, Arrives Schenectady at Noon and Motors from There to Albany.

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and party, en-route to Albany, landed here this noon.

Colonel Lindbergh said he landed here instead of at the Albany airport because he feared that the cross wind blowing at Albany might make a descent dangerous. His landing here was without incident.

A few minutes after the plane came to rest, Colonel Lindbergh and the other members of his party started to Albany by automobile.

Curtis Field, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took off at 10:10 a. m. today for Albany where he will address the State Legislature on a proposed state program for development of aviation.

In taking off over frozen runs the shock absorber cord of the tail skid broke, rendering the tail skid useless but Lindbergh declined to let this hinder him. He craned out of the pilot's seat glanced back at the dazing tail skid and then gave his engine the gun, making a graceful ascent.

Aviators on the field expressed admiration for the maneuver, saying that less skillful handling might easily have permitted the tail to drop to the earth again before the plane left the ground, resulting in a probable smashed rudder or more serious damage.

Lindbergh refused to pose for photographers before taking off saying that as the flight was not an official one he did not see the necessity of being photographed. He carried four passengers, and they posed for pictures without him. They were Henry Breckinridge, the flyer's lawyer, James Wilson of Louisville, Ky., Harold Bishop of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and B. Robinson of the Robinson-Curtis Company.

Lindbergh's arrival was virtually unheralded, and only six persons were on the flying field when his plane came to earth.

Among the six was Martin P. Rice, director of publicity of the General Electric Company, who had been notified from New York less than an hour before that Lindbergh might descend at Schenectady instead of at Albany.

The "Lone Eagle" did not wear flying clothes on the trip from New York. He was dressed in a blue and gray striped suit and wore an overcoat.

Soon after landing, he and his companions entered Mr. Rice's automobile and were driven to Albany.

The pursuit planes from Miller Field were National Guard craft, and were piloted by Captain William G. Rector and Lieutenants Victor Nelson and Mulligan. Accompanying Captain Rector was Lieutenant Marion Elliott, who with the captain was one of the fliers sent by New York state into the Vermont dog region last November.

In the army transport plane were Lieutenant Maitland, Assistant Secretaries for Aeronautics, F. Trubee Davison of the War Department, Edward P. Warner of the Navy Department and William P. McCracken of the Department of Commerce. Mayor Charles G. Hanna of Syracuse, temporary president of the State Aviation Conference, and Porter H. Adams, president of the National Aeronautical Association.

LOS ANGELES SLOWLY SAILING ON RETURN TRIP

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—With her blustery nose buffeting stiff north-east trade winds that helped her on the southward journey, the dirigible Los Angeles was sailing slowly homeward today after a 2,265 mile nonstop flight to the Canal Zone.

The trip back will not be made without a stop. Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl planned to moor to the tender Patoka, anchored in Guacanayabo Bay, Cuba, about 750 miles from Panama, take on fuel and perhaps make a few lateral excursions over Cuba before starting up the coast for the 1,500 miles journey to Lakehurst, N. J. A flight over Havana was regarded as probable.

Officials Fly to Albany.

Mitchell Field, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison, Mayor Charles G. Hanna of Syracuse and Lieutenant Lester J. Maitland, San Francisco to Honolulu flier, took off at 9:25 o'clock today in an army transport plane for Albany, where they will attend a session of the Legislature. Maitland, who piloted the plane, said they would reach the capital about 11 o'clock. Secretary Davison said they probably would fly direct from Albany to Washington tomorrow afternoon.

MAYOR DEMISEY ATTENDS MAYORS' CONFERENCE

Mayor E. J. Demisey and Alderman James T. O'Reilly of the Ninth ward are in Albany today attending the state mayors' conference in session there.

Virgil Given A Chance

Virgil Simmons, a negro who has been arrested here before, was picked up for public intoxication on Tuesday by the police. This morning in police court Virgil was given another chance as he had not appeared in court for some time.

Smith Signs Aviation Bill

In the Presence of Col. Lindbergh the Governor Approves First in Series of Laws That Will Make New York State First to Adopt an Aviation Program.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—In the presence of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Governor Smith today signed the first bill in a series which will establish New York as the first in the union to have a state aviation program.

"This will show what New York state is doing toward cooperating in aviation," said the governor, as he affixed his signature to the measure and handed the pen to Colonel Lindbergh.

"Thank you, Governor," said the transatlantic flier as he took the pen.

41 Aircraft Hunt Lost Navy Flyers

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—What was described by navy officials as the greatest aerial search ever made for missing men was pushed with renewed vigor today as forty-one aircraft scoured the Chesapeake Bay district for Commander T. G. Ellison and his two companions.

Virtually no clue as to what happened to them has been uncovered and although the search was being pursued relentlessly, the navy department was slowly giving up hope that they would ever be found. All regions of the Chesapeake were being subjected to the close scrutiny of naval, marine and army aviators.

The non-rigid naval dirigible J-3 from Lakehurst, N. J., accompanied by one airplane, began the search of the northern waters of the bay and its tributaries north of Annapolis early today.

Two army blimps from Langley Field, Va., cruised over the territory in the vicinity of Old Point Comfort, Ellyson, along with Lieutenant Commander Hugo Schmidt and Lieutenant Roger S. Ranshousen, has been missing since early Monday when he left Hampton Roads for Annapolis to visit his daughter who is ill.

SEEKING THE POLTERGEIST OF LITTLE DOUGLAS DREW

London, Feb. 22 (AP).—Eight-year old Douglas Drew, who in psychic circles bears the reputation of being possessed of a poltergeist or unruly spirit, must have felt like a gold fish in a glass bowl today.

For the purposes of observation Douglas began sittings at the National Laboratory of Psychological Research in a great glass enclosure with Director Harry Price and others peering at him from all sides for an hour.

His relatives and friends of the family claim that in a room when this fair haired, blue-eyed boy is around chairs frequently slide about the floor, teapots flit from one side of the room to the other, and equally inexplicable things occur.

Sir Oliver Lodge is among those who are taking a keen interest in the tests, which will continue for one week.

LOCAL MAN ARRESTED AT HAVESTRAW BROUGHT HERE

Donald J. Murphy of Spring street was arrested at Havestraw on a warrant sworn out by John Stamatakis, one of the proprietors of the Liberty Restaurant on Wall street, charging Murphy with petit larceny which arose out of a check transaction. Sergeant Phinney went to Havestraw this morning and returned at noon with Murphy, who will be arraigned in police court Friday morning.

According to the information sworn to by Mr. Stamatakis at the time the warrant was issued, he had cashed a check drawn on the Kingston Trust Company for $15 which had been tendered him by Mr. Murphy. The check when presented later for payment was returned as Murphy had no account in the bank.

FAVORS ABOLISHING OF ALL SUBMARINES

London, Feb. 22 (AP).—W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty when asked in the House of Commons today if he had considered the desirability of abolishing the submarine, if all other countries agreed to do the same, replied that the attitude of the British government remained the same as enunciated by Lord Lee of Fareham at the Washington conference in 1921. At that conference Lord Lee urged abolition of submarines.

This attitude, the first lord added, was reaffirmed by himself at a plenary session of the recent naval conference at Geneva.

Bared Death to Break Law.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—How she flirted with death to enter this country illegally from Canada was told immigration officials today by Anna Patriquin, pretty 17-year-old dressmaker of Montreal. Caribou men's trousers, a cape and sweater, the girl claims she was lowered by a rope over the gorge bank on the Canadian side to the lower abutments of the Michigan Central Railroad bridge and then accompanied by an alien runner, made her way across.

Traction Strike Draws Nearer

New York, Feb. 22 (AP).—The unhappy prospect of having to walk to work nearer New Yorkers today with officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company refusing to meet Mayor Walker to confer on the threatened strike. The question of a 7 cent fare is pending in state and federal courts.

The Amalgamated Association of Street and Railway Employees threatened to call a strike on the Interborough lines unless nine of its members, discharged for belonging to the union, are re-employed. The company controlled "brotherhood" of Interborough employees yesterday and announced it would not consent to the re-employment of the ousted men.

Frank Feder, president of the Interborough, has avoided a conference with Mayor Walker who is seeking to prevent the tie-up if it feared might result if the differences between the two unions and the Amalgamated and the company are not settled.

Following a written request from the mayor for a conference, the company issued a statement that no answer would be made to the request until after consultation with the brotherhood on Wednesday.

Meanwhile the Amalgamated leaders who claim they have a large representation among the Interborough employees, were marking time in line with their promise to the mayor they would not call a strike until they had consulted with him. They made this promise when he prevailed on the Interborough to re-employ thirteen of their men discharged last July, averting a strike at that time.

CHEZ HELEN MORGAN HAS CLUB FURNISHINGS RESTORED

New York, Feb. 22 (AP).—The elaborate furnishings of the Chez Helen Morgan, New York Club, seized by federal prohibition agents under an old section of the internal revenue laws, have been ordered restored following withdrawal of the charges.

The raid was made under a section of the revised statutes which the government to seize property on the premises of one believed to be defrauding the government of money due on taxable goods—in this case alleged intoxicants.

Helen Morgan, an actress and hostess, and several employees were arrested.

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said new information charging violation of the prohibition law would be filed against the defendants, with the exception of Miss Morgan, and Arthur Gordon, an entertainer.

The order of Federal Judge Julian W. Mack, directing restoration of the property, however, does not apply to bar-room fixtures seized from an adjoining building.

The raid by agents under Administrator Maurice Campbell the night of December 30 was one of the most spectacular ever made in the theatrical district. Patrons in dinner jackets and evening gowns looked on while the agents arrested Miss Morgan, Gordon and seven others and dismantled the place, carting the furnishings to a warehouse. Mr. Tuttle explained that a quantity of champagne, cognac, gin and other liquors bearing no tax stamps was found in the bar-room.

PEPPER OPPOSES BILL TO PERMIT STATE TAX ON BANKS

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—The Norbeck bill to allow the states to tax national bank shares, was opposed before the Senate banking committee today by former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania.

The former senator appeared as a representative of three Pennsylvania banks, the Harrisburg National, the Steelton National and the First National of Huntingdon.

"It is a poor use of legislative power," said Pepper, "to be continually tinkering with the basis of taxation."

BOMB EXPLOSION WRECKS ROOMS OF NEGRO ELK LODGE

Pittsburgh, Feb. 22 (AP).—A bomb belated by authorities to have been set off in an effort to frighten negro non-union miners of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, spread destruction through a section of Elizabeth early today. The fronts of a dozen buildings were wrecked, causing damage estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000. One man was injured.

Among the places damaged was the lodge rooms of the Maple View Lodge of Negro Elks, whose members work in the open shop Warden mine.

ARREST TWO MEN WHO ARE WANTED IN ELLENVILLE.

Charles Bennett, 30, and Herman Countryman, 24, were arrested by Sergeant Phinney on Tuesday afternoon on a warrant issued in Ellenville charging the two men with unlawful entry. Both were turned over to Sheriff Arthur Rice by the police.

Arbitration Treaty Approved.

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—The new French arbitration treaty was approved today by the Senate foreign relations committee.

Two Bands Seek City Contract For Concerts

Citizens Band and J. O. U. A. M. Band Both Desire Award of Public Works Contract for Summer Concerts—Board Considers Many Matters Thursday.

The question of summer band concerts this year came up at the regular monthly meeting of the board of public works Tuesday evening at the Municipal Building, when both the J. O. U. A. M. Band and the Citizens Band sought the contract, and the matter was deferred until the March meeting of the board. Many other matters were also considered at a busy session of the board at which Mayor E. J. Demisey presided with Commissioners Van Etten, Ford and Schenck in attendance.

The band question arose when Mayor Demisey informed the other members of the board that a delegation from the Mechanics' Band had waited on him on Monday evening and stated they desired the privilege of playing this season under the same condition as other bands in the past. They informed the mayor that they would be satisfied to play half the season and that another band could play the other half.

$810 Appropriated for Music.

It was brought out that there had been an appropriation of $810 placed in the budget for band concerts this year. This was the same amount appropriated last year.

Mayor Demisey said that in his opinion the request of the Mechanics' Band was reasonable as the members were also taxpayers of the city, and considering the fact that the Citizens' Band had had the contract for several seasons.

Maiselholder Seeks Contract.

Harry Maiselholder, leader of the Citizens' Band was present at the meeting and said he appeared in regard to the concert contract. He was informed that no contract had been made as yet by the board.

Van Etten Sought Information.

Commissioner Amos Van Etten said that he had been reading in the Freeman that evening about "unfair" and "fair" music and would like to ask Mr. Maiselholder to explain the difference.

Mr. Maiselholder said that he had attended several meetings of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the firemen's convention here this June and that the trouble had arisen over three bands, the Mechanics' Band, the Excelsior Hose Band and Ferraro's Band. Since then the differences with the Excelsior Hose Band and the Ferraro Band had been adjusted but that the Mechanics' Band was still "unfair."

Replying to Commissioner Van Etten's questions Mr. Maiselholder explained that the other bands were "fair" to the musicians' union but the Mechanics' Band was not.

It was also brought out that there would be nine concerts this year as in other years with the first concert being held in conjunction with the city's display of fireworks on the Fourth of July.

After some further discussion Commissioner Van Etten's motion that the question of bands be deferred to the next meeting was adopted.

Auto Club Signs.

A communication was read from the Automobile Club of Ulster county in which it was stated that as part of the club's safety campaign it was planning to put up very attractive steel out-of-door signs about 20x28 inches at dangerous corners and crossings in the city. The communication was referred to Superintendent Mills with power.

Canopy for Governor Clinton.

The Kingston Community Hotel Corporation sent in a request for permission to place a canopy from the hotel entrance of the Governor Clinton to the curb. It was referred to Superintendent Mills.

Residents Object to Follies.

Attorney Charles de la Vergne enclosed to the board a copy of a letter he had mailed to Banks & Roder, the Fair street firm, who contemplate removing to 306 Clinton avenue on or about the first of March in which their attention was called to the fact that that was a residential district under the zoning law and those residing in the vicinity objected to them locating at 306 Clinton avenue.

A communication was also received from Al King asking for permission to install an electric sign in front of 206 Clinton avenue for Banks & Roder.

As the board has received no application from Banks & Roder in regard to the removal of their business from 274 Fair street to the new address no action could be taken and the communication from Attorney de la Vergne was ordered filed. Action on the granting of the application for the electric sign was deferred until the next meeting.

Tucker's Application Rejected.

Abraham Tucker filed an application with the board asking a permit to erect a store at 211 Broadway. The store dimensions would be 25x29 feet. As this was in a residential section the application was rejected and Mr. Tucker was advised that his next step would be to take the matter up with the zoning board of appeals.

Finder Returns $52,000 to Bank

Canvas Bag Filled with U. S. Currency Found on Easy Bookish Thoroughfare by Henry Waldman, Business Man—Many Ignored Bundle of Money Returned to Federal Reserve Bank by Detective.

Henry Waldman, part owner of an automobile tire and radio business with his brother, Edward, at 1555 Coney Island avenue, Brooklyn, found $52,000 on the thoroughfare when he stepped out of his store shortly before 11 a. m. Tuesday. The large canvas bag in which the bills were stuffed came from the Hamilton branch of the Bowery and East River National Bank. The name of the United States Trusting Corporation was printed on the bag of money to be delivered to the Federal Reserve Bank.

Immediately after picking up the bag of money Waldman called his brother, partner in the business, and informed him of his find. One of the men called the Federal Reserve Bank and detectives were sent to get the $52,000. Waldman's brother said that Henry was alone on the avenue when he found the bag but as the thoroughfare is used by hundreds daily the bundle must have been ignored by many before he picked it up. When the brothers were asked if the large sum did not tempt them to pocket it, call the bank, Edward replied: "Well, it belonged to the bank, didn't it?"

A. H. Gibson, cashier of the bank, said that in his view it was a case of the money having been "temporarily misplaced." The bank had the tracking concern's receipt and none of the drivers employed had reported the loss to either the concern or the bank.

RETAIL GASOLINE PRICE WILL BE INCREASED TO 17c

Notification that the retail price of gasoline will be increased from fifteen to seventeen cents today, was received Tuesday at the Albany offices of the Standard Oil Company. It was indicated one or more companies may follow this move. An official of the Texas Oil Company said it had been pretty definitely decided that Standard gas went up, Texas and Sinclair would follow. A representative of the New York Independent Oil Company said an increase of one or two cents probably would be made by his company.

The Standard Company also announced withdrawal of commercial cards which entitle the holders to purchase gasoline at two cents lower than the retail rate. No more of these cards will be issued and those outstanding have been voided, a company announcement said, because of widespread abuses.

ASSESSMENT REVISIONS SLOGAN AT TAX CONFERENCE.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—Scientific methods of appraisal of property for purposes of taxation was the slogan of speakers at the second day's sessions of the sixth state conference of assessors and the thirteenth state tax conference here today.

Walter W. Pollock, of the Manufacturers' Appraisal Company, Philadelphia, declared that "in many New York municipalities, years have passed since assessment revisions have been made, except in a perfunctory manner."

"In most cities, villages and towns," he continued, "there are no maps showing dimensions of lots; buildings are appraised by obsolete and haphazard methods, and no record is kept of additions to old buildings, nor of new construction."

PRIVATE CAPITAL FAVORED TO REPLACE MERCHANT FLEET

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—Declaring the entire government merchant marine fleet must be replaced by 1949 at a cost of about $525,000,000 H. G. Smith of New York, vice-president of the National Council of American Shipbuilders, today told the House merchant marine committee that Congress should enact legislation "to make it possible for private capital to participate in the building of new ships" to replace the fleet.

He endorsed the Wood and White bills which would provide for government loans of three-fourths of the cost of vessels to private shipbuilders.

Automobile Dealer Sentenced

Washington, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP).—James E. De Friend, 49, former automobile dealer, who pleaded guilty Monday to charges of grand larceny, first degree, was sentenced this morning by Judge Frank La Rue, to serve from two to four years in Auburn prison. The larceny charge was made after De Friend placed double mortgages on cars he had sold. De Friend was captured in January after a six months search.

Dog Catchers Caught Three

Seven Dogs Were Gassed Tuesday and Three Were Added to Forsyth Park Pound—Total Dogs Caught So Far is 13.

The three unlicensed dog catchers of the city on Tuesday brought the total number of unlicensed dogs captured in this city up to forty-three. Seven of the dogs in the pound at Forsyth Park were brought to police headquarters Tuesday afternoon and gassed.

Several of the dogs that have been captured and impounded have been redeemed by the owners by paying the fees fixed by the board of health.

The work of capturing unlicensed dogs was again in progress today, and as there are still plenty of unlicensed animals on the streets undoubtedly a few more will be added to the collection at Forsyth Park.

Federal Farm Loans Foreclosed

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—Almost seventeen million dollars worth of farm lands have fallen into the hands of the Federal Farm Loan Board through foreclosures since establishment of the board, Lloyd S. Tenny, chief of the bureau of economics, department of agriculture, has disclosed in testimony before a house appropriations subcommittee.

Publication today of the testimony, given in framing the agriculture appropriation bill, revealed that in addition to that huge amount, another $5,940,391 is subject to foreclosure.

The foreclosed lands, and other huge tracts which have come into the possession of insurance companies are making it necessary for the agriculture department to make a study of estate conditions, Tenny said.

Henry Waldman replied, "Oh, no, we aren't expecting anything like that; but of course, it would be acceptable," when asked if anything had been suggested concerning a reward.

MILLIONS TO AID AGRICULTURE TO AID AGRICULTURE

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP).—Activities ranging from the furnishing of weather data for the fast growing aviation industry to the fight against the Mexican pink boll worm, the gypsy moth, the European corn borer and the Japanese beetle were provided for today in the appropriation bill for the department of agriculture which was reported to the House.

The bill carried a grand total of $143,319,349 for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, and standing high in its recommendation was one of the expansion of weather bureau service for aviators.

An appropriation of $2,709,000 was recommended for the bureau, of which $25,900 would be for the establishment of additional meteorological stations and service on commercial airways, the committee declaring that this was necessary "to properly carry out meteorological service for the benefit of aviators, as contemplated by the air commerce act of 1926." A total of $77,500,000 was recommended for road construction of which $71,999,000 is for federal aid to states.

VERMONT MAN, FOUNDER OF PARIS NEWSPAPER, DEAD

Paris, Feb. 22 (AP).—William Alonzo Hopkins, of Brattleboro, Vt., one of the founders of the Paris newspaper, Le Matin, is dead at the age of 85. He was reputed to be the dean of the American colony here.

Mr. Hopkins was the intimate friend of General Grant, Ferdinand de Lesseps, Governor Land Stanford, founder of the university which bears his name, and other leaders on both sides of the Atlantic.

He made a fortune in bronze in New Jersey, inventing a new type which was largely used in the White House. He came to Europe in 1875 in ill health.

HEYBRICK AWARDED CONTRACT FOR PLUMBING

Fred F. Heybrick of Abel street submitted a bid of $235 for the plumbing work at the Cornell, Rapid and Excelsior Hose houses and was awarded the contract for the work at the meeting of the fire commissioners Tuesday evening. Mr. Heybrick was the lowest bidder. The board then ordered a dozen Sharp-shoot fire extinguishers to be carried on the fire trucks and used in case of small fires. Before adjourning the board transacted usual routine business.

Van Buren Scores The Follies of '28

And a Few That Are of Much Older Vintage but Still Thriving—The Speaker Tosses an Occasional Bouquet Amid the Shower of Brickbats and Skyrockets.

Kiwians and Rotarians and their guests filled the main dining room at the Governor Clinton hotel today when the two clubs met jointly at luncheon and were entertained by a musical program.

Guests H. Van Buren, who spoke was "Merchants, Doctors, Lawyers, Businessmen and Women" of the strong and the weak points of each subdivision of his subject the judge had something to say in his own charming manner. With much choice of verbal weapons ranging from staid hammer and scythe to rapier, lance and pin prick, Judge Van Buren let in his notion of what constitutes the light on the shortcomings and follies of his audience and their friends, as only he can do. Among other things, the speaker said:

In order to entertain you by something out of the ordinary I have chosen as my subject, "Merchants, Doctors, Lawyers, Businessmen, and Women"; quite a contrast, but don't be alarmed; I can out it down. As beautiful, poetic, mellifluous fars, the merchants have got Annapolis ticked to the hilt. If you don't believe it read the ads in The Leader and the Freeman. Here are a few choice ones taken at random: "Fresh Easter county pork." "From Chicago: 'Pure pork sausage.' (Seasoned with cracker dust and water.) 'Home made pies and cake.' 'Mother's bread.' 'Pure maple syrup.' (Made from molasses and brown sugar.) 'A few genuine ladies' silk hose left. Two for a dollar. Worth five.' 'Large assortment of Parisian gorges at greatly reduced prices.' If you don't know what a gorge is, ask your big sister, wife, or mother; better not fire it at your best girl. 'Special $1.50 corsets, including back lace, elastic top, medium bust, long hip model. Extra value for $1.00.' Don't wonder at this tremendous cut in price, for I am told that these corsets are about passe. 'Just returned from Paris, with the latest styles.' 'I didn't go further than sixth avenue, but don't tell

Income Tax in a Nutshell

Tips for Taxpayers.

No. 15.

Losses arising from "fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualty, or from theft" are deductible and need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained. The term "other casualty," within the meaning of the statute, is one arising through the physical force of nature—for example, a flood or frost.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure or convenience is deductible. Should circumstances attending a loss of jewelry leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen, misplaced, or lost from his person, a claim for loss would not be allowed. It must be established that the jewelry was stolen.

A loss for embezzlement is deductible for the year in which sustained.

DISINFECTION MAINLY A FETTER SAY SCIENTISTS

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 29 (A).—Gone is the little pile of smoking sulphur on a hot stove lid with which our grandmothers used to fumigate the entire house after someone had recovered from a contagious disease.

Gone too, are the later disinfectants—Sulphur candles, liquid formaldehyde, and the improved solidified formaldehyde, which later displaced the primitive method of fumigation in homes, and many public buildings.

With increased knowledge of the methods by which disease is spread, the New York State Department of Health has gradually abandoned disinfection in the majority of contagious diseases. Today it urges disinfection to prevent the spread of only three diseases—tuberculosis, smallpox and chickenpox.

"Fumigation or disinfection became a fetter," says Burt R. Rickards, director of publicity and education for the department.

"As children were taught to walk on the other side of the street from a house which had been quarantined, I remember one city in which I worked, where the health authorities had to disinfect every vacant house before another family was allowed to move in.

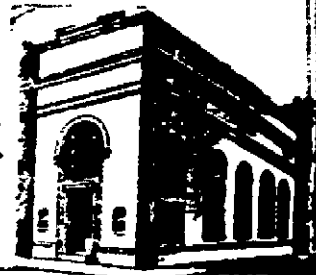

"Thousands of dollars were spent annually in attempting to prevent the spread of disease by methods which we now know to be practically worthless."

Countless experiments have proved, according to health authorities, that disease germs die when exposed to sunlight and fresh air, the two best "disinfectants" known to medical science.

WE MAY NOT REACH PERFECTION

Yet—We are constantly striving to perfect your service ---

IN a public service which depends so largely upon the co-ordination between machinery and human effort as does telephone service, there will always be room for improvement. There will never come a time when we can sit back and say with a satisfied air, "There! At last we are perfect!"

Nevertheless, we are continually working toward that ideal. In the past seven years for instance, the time consumed for making out-of-town calls has been cut to less than one-half, while nearby points may now be reached as quickly as local calls.

Cities hundreds of miles distant are now only five minutes away, on the average, as against fifteen minutes or more in 1920. Telephone "troubles" have been steadily decreased by the storm-defying cables which are fast replacing open wire lines. And Canada, Cuba and parts of Europe and Mexico are now within talking distance.

It is true we may not reach perfection—but we are striving continually to increase the convenience, speed, dependability and scope of your service, to make it of greater usefulness.

NEW YORK TELEPHONE COMPANY

Pittsburgh Coal Co. Statement

Pittsburgh, Feb. 25 (P).—Continuing its advertisements in the newspapers, directed to the public, the Pittsburgh Coal Company today has 5,578 miners at work in mines while other companies have 175 non-union men working in mines. These non-union mines, the company claimed, produced 1,300 tons of coal in January. The company launched its advertisements yesterday, saying that "as actions and pronouncements of a pending Senate committee seem to it as a prejudiced body, we are taking this means of telling the public the facts because neither the committee nor the newspapers seem to present both sides of the question."

Under the heading: "Are these men poorly paid?" the company said that the non-union miners are the skilled labor of the mining industry—during 1927 cutters in our mines, working steadily averaged approximately $2,943 or about $250 a month. Even the unskilled class of miners—the loaders—averaged close to $1,700 a year or about $150 a month. This is only an average—many loaders made over $2,000 and some steady work-

Here's Fuelless Motor You've Heard Much About

LESTER J. HENDERSHOT AND FUELLESS PLANE

Quite a jolt was given the whole wide world when it became known that a Pittsburgh inventor, Lester J. Hendershot, had brought out what is claimed to be the first motor to ever run without fuel of any kind.

And when the news followed that no less a celebrity than Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had become keenly interested in the invention, everybody started to sit up and take notice.

The accompanying photo is the first ever made of the airplane which is said to carry this new motor, which, if plans go according to expectations, may well revolutionize all automotive industries.

According to what little can be learned—for the few vitally concerned with the project are keeping as mum as the proverbial oysters—the device is still in the experimental stage. But Lindbergh's interest may betoken the fact that the inventor and his friends are just a little bit modest about it.

Hendershot is a free lance inventor who has perfected a number of electrical appliances and who some time ago became absorbed in motor problems.

The motor of the plane is said to develop electric energy from the air with the aid of what is called a "free energy generator." And that's all can be found out about it.

BURNS FATAL TO MOTHER WHO TRIED TO SAVE SON

Mrs. Stella Kocirecki, severely burned while trying to rescue her two-year-old son, William, from a burning house three miles from Goshen, Sunday morning, died Monday in Warwick Hospital. The woman, whose age was but nineteen years, bravely fought a fire in the kitchen of her home, which burned blindingly, trying to rescue her son from the flames, which spread rapidly and soon enveloped the house. She fell exhausted in the yard of her home after failing to locate the baby on the upper floor of the burning building. The child was saved from being burned to death by his uncle, Joseph Kocirecki, who made a daring rescue by placing a ladder against the side of the burning building in order to reach the boy.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB. 29, 1928.

Although "backbiting parties" have been relatively few in Virginia, that state has enacted a law defining backbiting as murder and making it punishable as such. Lyncings in the United States will now occur more frequently than ever, if at all.

The modern problem presented by the "loud speaker" is emphasized by the newspaper correspondent who complains that even in his exclusive suburb he is driven from his studies and family conversation is interrupted by "the howlings of announcers, the tinkling of cheap instruments, the sentimental quaverings of slushy sopranos." No wonder Senator Dill, now interested in radio legislation, is of the opinion that the character of programs broadcasted deserves Federal attention and that the time is likely to come when the loud speaker may be thought worthy of police notice.

THE CHURCHES RECALLED.

If the influence of the churches has waned, as is popularly asserted and as some clergymen have lamented, one obvious reason for it is that so many religious teachers have virtually abdicated and become mere politicians. It is a frequently heard remark among observers that the interest of religionists is now in civil affairs and political power rather than in spiritual things. In other words, they have lost interest in and deserted the pulpit of tradition and become active figures in the wrangling political forum.

Against this more than tendency, which he recognized as a deplorable fact, the Rev. Dr. Kingman A. Handy spoke frankly and earnestly before a recent Baptist Ministers' Conference. Dr. Handy reasserted the old American principle of the separation of church and State and rebuked the increasingly numerous members of his profession for their "uncalled for and dangerous meddling" in public affairs, citing the political activities of churches as churches in behalf of prohibition and the mundane occupations of the Lord's Day Alliance.

He would have ministers of the Gospel remember their great, sufficient and peculiar work is to preach spiritual truth with a view to lead to the amendment of the lives of men and thus to the "saving of souls." He made it clear that when the church degenerates into a mere civic "reform society," its mission proclaimed by the Apostles nineteen centuries ago will have ceased to be and its inspiration will have been lost.

DEMOCRACY'S BOSSES

Can the people nominate, or even contribute toward the nomination of, a Presidential candidate? A left-over American of the old school would regard such a question as ridiculous and answer emphatically in the affirmative, but a keen observer of the modern scene answers unreservedly in the negative. Writing in a by no means unfriendly way of Senator "Jim" Reed's speaking tour, which presupposes that "the people have something to do with the nomination of national tickets," Frank R. Kent, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says:

As a matter of fact, every posted man knows that theory, if it ever was sound, has long ceased to be so. The nomination of a President these days is a severely practical business, wholly in the hands of the men who control the machines in the several States and concerning which the public has nothing whatever to do. Delegates to national conventions are chosen not as a result of the popular will, which is inert and ineffectual, but according to the personal predilections and local political necessities of the so-called State bosses. The primaries are a mere pretense. The only fault is when the local politicians fail out. . . . Speechmaking before the convention is a futile gesture, even when the speaker is as good as Senator Reed. It might be different if there were any way of stirring the party voters not affiliated with the machine into active participation in the selection of delegates to the convention, but there is no such way. Complete appreciation of this in Washington. . . . That Senator Reed will not gain a single delegate he would not have had anyhow.

Admitting this to be an extreme view, it must be said that there is much to support it in the well known conditions. We have traveled a long way from the situation when our government was founded, when the States were sparsely settled by a

DILATED OR DISTENDED STOMACH.
 You read frequently about a dilated stomach, a "dropped" stomach, and perhaps you have an idea that this type of stomach is a big hollow organ hanging down in abdomen all the time.

As a matter of fact the normal stomach is a large organ, and when filled has a capacity of three to four pints, but when it is empty it does not hang fully distended. In fact its walls practically touch one another.

You see its walls have muscular coats which run lengthways, circularly, and obliquely, and these muscles when they act, churn up the food just as milk is churned for butter, or soiled clothing is churned in the water of a washing machine.

Now when food enters a healthy or normal stomach these muscular walls contract or shorten in their efforts to have this food well mixed with the stomach digestive juice.

If they do not contract or shorten, then the food distends the stomach and it is called a dilated stomach.

As the stomach is dilated and the muscular walls not working any too well, it means that the stomach will be slow in emptying its contents into the small intestine.

There will thus ensue some accumulation of gas which causes pressure, and sometimes pain.

Further, in nervous individuals the emotions can interfere with the working of these muscular coats of the stomach.

The main symptom in this loss of muscular tone in the stomach is the "sense of pressure in the stomach region."

Now your doctor in treating you, will suggest small meals taken four or five times a day.

However there is no question but that where you find weakness in the muscles of the walls of the stomach, you will usually find weakness in all the muscles of the body, so that regular exercise which will strengthen the body will be of help to the stomach muscles.

Because if the muscles of abdomen are developed by bending exercises, with knees straight, the abdominal walls will tighten and will thus help hold the stomach up in its proper position.

I have outlined before the simple method of helping the stomach to empty itself. About four hours after you have eaten, or just before your next meal, you lie down on right side for about ten minutes. Thus any food lying in the stomach is syphoned into the intestine and the stomach gets a little rest before the next meal. You can see that this is a valuable help in preventing the stomach from being distended for too long a period at a time.

NEW PALATZ

New Palat, Feb. 25. The Sullivan School, No. 114, at New Palat, was the scene of a meeting today to organize the new Episcopal Church. A committee has been appointed to meet the representatives of the church to arrange the details of the transfer of title. The Methodist Church has held title to this property since 1870. The transfer of title will take place as soon as the new church can occupy the building which is to be built on the corner of Main and Grove streets. The Sullivan School Post Office will be moved to the new building. A certificate of Disting. Hon. for faithfulness in the discharge of duties, meriting commendation and esteem and a gold pin membership in the church was given to only six members of the new church. The highest honor in New York state is to be given to the list of members of New York state as to paid up membership to February 15, 1928.

On Sunday evening at 8 o'clock a lantern slide lecture of Palestine was given at the Reformed Church by the pastor, the Rev. E. D. Miner. The Rev. Thought for Today Doing is the great thing. For it, resolutely, people do what is right, in times they come to like doing it.—Ruskin.

an Buren Scores The Follies of '28

She is now your wife and mother of your children. You have her, but you are a busy business man. You must not forget to send her flowers. A single rose is better than a necklace of diamonds. And when you cannot see her, write her a letter with tears, and when she has left, and left you forever, you may find that pressed and withered rose, and you will regret that you had not sent it to her with love.

I am sure that the merchants will be glad to have a little fun with them, for I know that trade is slow, competition keen, profits small, collections slow, and expenses great. Not many years ago a merchant dealt only in those goods pertaining to his own particular line of business. Now the grocer sells in fruit, vegetables, candy, and cake and pie; the dry goods merchant in jewelry, household goods, trinkets of all kinds; the butcher in butter and eggs; the chemist in perfumes, toilet articles, and even furnishes a meal; the five and ten cent stores in nearly everything, and the big department stores in everything from a paper of pins to an auto.

This divides up profits and must hurt, and I know of no remedy. Don't be alarmed, our merchants will meet and conquer the situation. We can aid them by buying at home. The merchants and the so-called labor class are the backbone of every community, and therefore I do not say to every merchant whether he be a liar or not.

One of the wisest of the Chinese emperors made a law that a doctor who cured his patient not pay, but if his patient died, the doctor got his head cut off. A most excellent law. The doctors do one mean thing. In treating a patient, a bunch of his fellows will testify that the charge is true. If a lawyer be sued by his client for conducting his case improperly and being ignorant as to the law, and ask me or any other lawyer if the charge be true, the answer will be, "He knew the facts of the case, I do not. I believe he did all that he thought proper." Neither he nor any other lawyer knew what the law of the case was, for it was made by the Solomon before whom the case was tried, and how he would make it Angel Gabriel himself didn't know.

The late William D. Brinnier put it in a nutshell when he said: "Gus, if we lawyers don't stick together, what in hell will become of us."

Kingston is blessed in having the greatest and most expert doctor in the world. He can cure anything from a sore toe to leprosy, and all it will cost you to consult him is a two-cent postage stamp, and he will send you a prescription in the next day's letter.

Here are a few. To a loving mother whose boy has to take his meals in a boarding-house, and has indignation. "Remove him immediately from the boarding-house." To a fairy who asked if the use of a lip-stick was injurious: "Not particularly to a young woman, but very dangerous to all men, young and old." To a woman who suffers from worms: "Eat only those things that the worms don't like." To a woman who is half crazy because she has howlers: "You can improve their condition by taking daily leg exercise. Up knee bend. Down knee bend. Side knee bend. Spiral knee bend. Lying on your back, rapid up and down knee bend." I'll give ten dollars to see that acrobatic performance.

Every doctor has a fad. That cracker-jack doctor and surgeon, Chancelier, believes that milk is a poison. Say to him that millions of little baby boys and girls, pigs, lambs, calves, and kittens have been reared on milk and seem to thrive, and he will answer: "Darn wonder they didn't die. Is a poison." Some doctors believe that "the sun do move," and practice to some extent as their predecessors did. If they went to the limit as the old days did, they would be and ought to be electrocuted. Here are a few items from a receipted bill of a doctor rendered to my great-grandfather, "August 18. To four bolus. 8 pence. August 12. To jalap. 6 pence. August 12. To two bolus. 4 pence. August 18. To cupping to date. 10 shillings."

The old fellow put up a great fight, but they buried him. No science has advanced more rapidly and beneficially than medicine. Great plagues killing millions no longer sweep over the world. Yellow and spotted fever, malaria, diphtheria, smallpox and other deadly diseases have been conquered. Panama, where the French died like flies, is a health resort. In order to do all this more than one doctor sacrificed his life. They have even gone to live and die with the lepers at Molokai, in order to discover the germ of leprosy.

Great as have been the discoveries in medical science, through the labors of doctors and other scientists, we stand on the threshold of greater and more astounding ones. Did you ever stop to think why we get sick, think, reason, laugh, cry, get sick and die; in short why we behave like human beings.

We have what are called ductless glands, small sacs, which discharge their secretions directly into the blood, instead of through a duct or canal. These secretions are called hormones, that is, exciters, and it is believed that they cause us to behave like human beings. For illustration, the thyroid gland lies astride our Adam's apple. Frogs' eggs develop into fish-like tadpoles. They lose their tails and gills, develop true lungs and become frogs. Remove the tadpole's thyroid and it never becomes a frog, but remains a tadpole all its life. Feed a tadpole with thyroid and it becomes a frog in a hurry, the fish stage of its existence being reduced from a year to two weeks; but the frog is only as big as a fly. Children with defective thyroids become idiotic dwarfs. Astounding results for their betterment have been achieved by feeding them thyroid. The main constituent of the secretion of the thyroid is iodine. It is believed that no life exists without iodine. Three and a half grains of the hormone of the thyroid are all that stand between intelligence and idiocy. The secretions of the other ductless glands, some of which are produced artificially and sold as drugs, produce equally astonishing results. Who knows but by them we may be able to banish all disease, prolong life indefinitely, and perform the miracle of miracles, change a Kingston lawyer into a Daniel Webster.

With the exception of the lawyers, the doctors do more work for nothing than the members of any other profession. The vast majority of them are always ready and willing to give their services to the poor without fee or reward, or the hope thereof and too often do not receive even, "I thank you." Therefore I do not say to every doctor, including the Aesculapius of the Kingston Daily Leader.

Lawyers are called liars, thieves and robbers, and there are a few such, and also there are some merchants, doctors, dominees, and women, whom the description will fit. There is one mean thing in practicing law. Here is a man who stands high in a community, he is held up as a model of an honest, Christian gentleman, he contributes liberally to the church, and prays that all lawyers may be converted. His lawyer, and his lawyer only, knows that he is a damn scoundrel, and that makes the lawyer a doubter, and that makes the lawyer a doubter, and that makes lawyers will trust to them what they won't trust to their wife, father or mother, and not once in a thousand times will their confidence be betrayed. What I may wish to say regarding lawyers can more properly be addressed to an audience of lawyers only, and therefore, I will allude to but two things. I am extremely sorry to say that the lawyers led by a few fool reformers are mainly responsible for two laws which are a disgrace to the statute book of our state.

One is capital punishment. To lock a man up in a cell for a year or more, the sword of Damocles ever hanging over his head by a hair; and then shave his head, lead the tottering footsteps of the half crazed wretch to a chair, strap him fast, place a mask over his face, and then kill him by a flash of lightning, is, in my opinion, in this great Empire State of the Union, and in the year of our Lord Jesus Christ, 1928, a damnable, brutal, savage, unchristian and hellish. You say to me, "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth." And I say to you, "Ye have heard that it hath been said, an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth. But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil, but whosoever shall smite thee on the right cheek, turn to him the other also."

The other law is that making a sentence for life imprisonment mandatory on a conviction of a fourth felony. Undoubtedly such a sentence may be proper in some cases, but not in all. Three times, just before Thanksgiving, old darkie Bob broke into the chicken coop of a neighbor farmer, stole a big fat gobbler and tested it home; for there could not be a Thanksgiving for Dinah and the kids without a turkey. Three times he was convicted, but being a good old darkie, as honest as the day is long, and whom everyone likes, sentence was suspended. He made a fourth trip, and again was convicted. The eyes of the judge were wet as he pronounced the sentence he had to pronounce, every man in that court room cursed the makers of that law; Dinah fainted, the kids yelled; and darkie Bob didn't know what it was all about as they led him away to imprisonment for life.

What do you think of that? The Parthenon of Greece enshrined many gods and goddesses. Temples and statues, poems in stone, were erected to them, they were worshipped and adored; but in Greece alone. But they had an altar to one god which was famed throughout the world; the barbarian swept down upon Greece and marred or destroyed the other fanes but no impious hand was raised against this one; it stood in Athens until the glory of Greece was destroyed by the Romans; its name was PITY.

Nearly every movement for the liberty of man, woman and child, has been led by lawyers. It was a lawyer who was the first to declare that England had no right to tax the colonies without their consent, and who rang the tocsin of the Revolution, Patrick Henry. Lawyers were in the Constitution of the United States, and it was a lawyer who declared that that Constitution made a Union one and indivisible, Daniel Webster. Lawyers caused the adoption of the ordinance for the government of the Northwest Territory, which forever dedicated an empire to freedom. It was a lawyer, who as governor of this state, years before Lincoln was born, affixed his name to a veto of a bill which denied civil and political rights to negroes. It was this same lawyer and governor who was the first executive in America to secure an appropriation for free common schools and built the "little red school house." He was a son of Ulster. He sleeps in that graveyard over there, and this hotel bears his name. It was a lawyer, and the greatest of all Americans, who wrote and signed the most sublime document ever penned by man. We call it the Emancipation Proclamation, and we call him Abraham Lincoln. So I do not say to all lawyers, and I do not say to myself, and I do not say to the stars.

No man this side of the stars has a tougher and more thankless job than the average dominee. They have to live on small salaries, donation parties, and trust in the Lord for the balance; and they do it without a murmur and without a complaint, but with many a groan. Their principal business should be saving the souls of such miserable sinners as the members of their congregation, you, and myself. Instead they have to be collection agencies for their own pay, support of church property, and the conversion of foreign heathen who don't want to and won't be converted. He has to be like the two daughters of the horse-leech, ever crying, give, give, give. He has to chat and smile with silly ignorant sisters, and play the hypocrite to the brothers who have money. If he happens to marry a pretty girl of his own congregation all the other marriageable sisters make life miserable for the bride, because he married such a thing. He has to attend church suppers, fairs, and other horrible performances when he would rather be in his study reading history, science, poetry, or a wicked novel. Here is a dominee, who, as every educated man outside of Tennessee, is a modernist, and one of the most difficult questions he has to decide is, whether he shall tell his congregation the truth. More than one dominee has asked me that question, and I have answered, "No, most of them won't understand what you are talking about, and if they do you will only unsettle them in their beliefs and make them miserable. Let them alone with their idols."

Nearly every dominee is told that he must not talk politics; that politics and religion don't mix. If they mean by politics, the scramble for office, strict adherence to party, running the machine, they are right. If they mean what I mean by politics, statesmanship, matters of public policy, questions of right or wrong, then the dominee in his pulpit is just the right man to talk politics. Why not? Is not the proper solution of such questions of the highest importance, and yet, in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred he will find that Othello's occupation is gone. I never heard but one dominee who knew how to pray. Usually their petitions consist of quotations from Scripture, meaningless expressions, and telling the Almighty what he ought and ought not to do. "Lord, Thou knowest we are lost sheep and gone astray." I may be lost but I ain't no sheep. "Lead us as Thou didst lead Thy servant David." Does that mean that we must kill a man in order to add his pretty wife to our harem? "Thou knowest our many transgressions." What's the use of telling Him that? He and everyone else knows it. "Redeem us from the sin of our first parents." There are millions of Eves tempting the present Adams; better say, "Oh, Lord, deliver us from them." I once heard Henry Ward Beecher repeat the Lord's Prayer. I never heard it before or since. I never before knew what it meant. "Our Father, not a wrathful, merciless, unforgiving, cruel Jehovah, but a kind, tender, loving, compassionate Father, which art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done." Where? In a city with streets of gold and gates of pearl in a world to come? No, "in earth, as it is in heaven." "Give us this day, What? Faith, a belief in creed or dogma, a belief in anything? No, but 'our daily bread.' Let the cry of poverty no longer be heard, starvation no longer stalk abroad, and forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." The eternal law of justice and fair play. "And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever. Amen."

Old beliefs have passed away. The dominees no longer preach hell, creed, dogma, election and infant damnation. The hysteria of the old Methodist camp and protracted prayer meeting is gone. Will it ever come back? Let a residence sweep over the land, killing thousands, and I think it will. The greatest of all poets, ancient and modern wrote: "That atheist wretch who high heaven dares defy, cowers and trembles when Jove's thunder shakes the sky."

I am at a loss as to whether the priests of Holy Mother Church should be classed with the dominees. They are dominees and much more than dominees. They are fathers, leaders, confessors, they are not troubled with creed or dogma, they are neither modernists nor fundamentalists, they are simply Romanists. I never could be a Roman Catholic, the Dutch blood that flows in my veins would prevent it; but Catholicism has many things of value. There comes a time in the life of nearly every person when it would be a great relief to unburden himself to someone. There are only two persons in the world to whom he can do it in absolute safety; the priest in confession and a true Mason.

Celibacy of the priesthood has its bad features, and good ones. Let a deadly contagious disease visit Kingston, the Protestant dominee will, and should, hesitate to visit those afflicted; there are his wife and children. The priests go.

I have heard it said that the priests violate their vows. Perhaps some do, but not all Protestant dominees are Josephs. I think Joseph was a fool. If I had been Joseph, I would have gone back to get my coat from pretty Mrs. Potiphar. How many of you wouldn't? Dominees do much good and no harm; they are the great balance wheel of society, and therefore I doff my hat to everyone of them.

A woman is the most wonderful, mysterious, loveliest, most beautiful, loving, kind, tender, wisest, meanest, dumbest, most wicked, diabolical creature that ever walked on two legs. She is the great riddle of the ages, and although we cannot solve her, we will never give her up. I have known lots of women, and one of them has had the misfortune to be my wife for many years, yet women do a lot of things beyond my comprehension, and if you can, I wish you would tell me why they do them. In the summer time when the thermometer is in the eighties, a woman will walk down street having on a long cloak, and a long fur thing about her neck. In winter when a man has his overcoat buttoned up to his ears, and thick shoes, she has no cloak or neck covering, thin shoes and stockings, a skirt to the knees, and hardly anything else on. Why does she do that, and why don't she get cold and die? Answer me that, will you. Women wear two tails, one short and one long, dangling on each side of them. What do they wear them for. Answer me that, will you. Those who have bobbed hair have one thick bob hanging over one cheek, which they constantly jerk one way and then another, and which shuts one eye so they have to look at you sideways. Why do they do that? Answer me that, will you. A woman should look her very best, but why do women wear the latest styles although they don't become them? Why do those who have long thin legs like a spider, and those who have legs like an elephant, and are bow-legged, wear skirts that come only to the knees? Answer me that, will you. After you have put your shirts, collars and other things just where you want them, why does your wife hide them so you can't find them? Answer me that, will you.

They have cake sales in the Methodist Church for the benefit of the heathen, when a heathen would rather eat a baked or boiled missionary than any cake. Mrs. Van Buren makes a lovely big fat cake, and solemnly carries it over to the cake sale, during the morning. In the afternoon she gravely goes to the sale, buys that very cake and brings it home. Why don't she give them the money without having the trouble of making the cake? Answer me that, will you.

There are three separate and distinct species of women—male women, female women and old maids. The flapper, the flirt, the girl who smokes, and takes a nip, the one who wears only a fig leaf isn't a male woman. The male woman is coarse, vulgar, ignorant, gaudily dressed, loads herself with jewelry, paste and otherwise, and has a voice like a fog horn. In short she is like a peach with the down rubbed off. The whole bunch should be transported to an island miles from any other human beings.

Female women are the millions of modest, pure in act and deed, intelligent, tender, pretty and bad looking, rich and poor young unmarried women, and also the millions of faithful, loving, homelike, saving, ever-trusting, never-failing wives, and mothers. You can have one or a dozen wives but only one mother. She will attend every step you take in the journey of life, stand by you through cool and evil, forgive and forget all things. She will visit you in the cell of the prison, and if permitted, will go with you to the electric chair. Thank God for a mother, the holiest, most sacred thing on earth.

Then there are the old maids. We poke fun at them. They smile and laugh at it. But go slow, very slow, for tears are very near the smiles, and a broken heart may lie under the laugh. Many years ago a woman went into the jaws of death, and through the door of hell, and a baby boy was born. Five days after she died, leaving the baby and three daughters, the eldest twelve years. In a little over a year the father died. That mother had a sister in the full beauty of young womanhood. She refused to marry in order to care for those children, and she did it. The girls married and went to their homes. The baby boy remained. That old maid was father and mother to that boy through many a long year. She never said a cross word to him in her life. She never went to sleep until she knew he was safe at home. She sacrificed her life to him. After years she fell ill. Thank God she did not suffer long. Then she died, and if there be a heaven, she went there. But she did not stay in heaven. All the glory of the New Jerusalem, even the presence of the Lamb could not keep her there. You may think as you please and believe as you wish, and it matters not to me; for I know that that old maid came back, came back many many times to watch over and care

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Thursday, March 1.

Philips starting tomorrow, February 29, radio stations all over the United States will be master of ceremonies at the annual banquet of the International Chamber of Commerce, the details of which will be made public through the radio. Beginning at 8:30 p.m. the American hour of music will be on the air over the Blue network stations. Frank Sheridan, a pianist of some musicianship and versatility, will make the radio debut during this program. The Maxwell hour, scheduled by these same stations for 10:30 p.m. Thursday night, will feature James McPherson, bass, and the Lexov trio quartet. Nathaniel Shusterman's orchestra will accompany and assist the guest artists. WJAF at 10:45 p.m. will broadcast another martial concert by the United States Naval Academy band and at 11:30 p.m. WJAF will introduce the Orpheus chorus of Augustana College for a DX highlight well worth tuning in. Arturo Toscanini will again direct the New York Philharmonic orchestra in their regular Thursday concert to be broadcast by WOR at 8:25.

Monuments at a Worthwhile Saving

THAT monument that you will have erected this spring can be purchased now at a big reduction.

Our Reason For This Big Reduction

As we are manufacturers and employ a number of men we must give them employment during our slack winter period and are willing to sacrifice profit that we might keep our plant operating during this dull season.

Why You Should Place Your Order With Us Now

1. Being Manufacturers you can buy through our one profit method of distribution—DIRECT FROM MANUFACTURER.
2. You avoid the spring rush and are assured of a better choice, from a larger selection NOW than will be possible after so many have selected their Family Memorial in the spring.
3. We will have more time to devote to the construction of this very important work of merit.
4. You can take advantage of these discounts by placing your order NOW to be constructed during the winter and set in the spring.

"LOVE 'EM AND LEAVE 'EM" IDEA LEADS TO JAIL

Frank Wills, Who Married 16 or More, Cannot Recall Wives' Names.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Frank Wills, forty and forty, who broke some kind of a record or other when he married 16 women in 16 weeks, is thinking of setting up housekeeping again, but he will have to wait until he gets out of jail.

Just to show he is willing, he put an advertisement for a housekeeper in a local paper, and then, becoming really enthusiastic, offered to wed six of the widows, who were among the "who replied to the advertisement."

But One Wife Appears.
Later in City court he identified himself as "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em Frank," claimed Northampton, Mass., as his home town, and said he played Santa Claus in the 5 and 10-cent stores one week in each year and worked at the matrimonial profession the rest of the time.

Although Wills boasts of his 16 wives, only one of them has put in her appearance since his arrest. She was Pauline Walcott of Brooklyn, N. Y., Wills, using the alias of Wilkins, married at the Municipal building in New York December 8. He left her December 12 when he discovered she had no money but before he left, she says, he forged her brother's name to two checks. Accordingly, he will be tried for forgery in New York.

"She was a nice girl, one of the last of my 16 wives," mused Wills as he sat in his cell reading the matrimonial columns of his favorite newspaper. "She was all right and she wants me to go back to her in New York, but nothing doing. I don't want to go to New York. Bridgeport suits me."

"I had six women here ready to marry me within a week after I arrived. Only for the police grabbing me at the post office, I'd have been married again, maybe two or three times. One of the girls was a knock-out."

Can't Recall Names.
Wills is a bit dim about the names of all his wives.

"Some of them just didn't register. Say, you police must think I have a wonderful memory," he declared. "As I recall it, the name of one I married was Mrs. Helen Russell of New Haven. She was a widow with one child. Then there was a Mrs. Edie McElennan of Boston. I married her in Portland, Maine."

"There was another Boston woman, one in Washington, D. C.; two in Baltimore—wish I could see them now—one in New London, and some others, about 16 in all, since last August."

"But I did not stay with them long enough to really get acquainted. I've been trying to think of their names and the dates of our weddings just to while away the time at jail, but I haven't had much luck so far."

Wills said he did a lot of marrying when he was younger, but that except for this last burst of speed he has slowed up considerably of late years.

Rooster With Two Horns Dispenses With Spurs

Hot Springs, Ark.—Now the rooster has joined the list of horned animals. At least one rooster has, for on the Arkansas alligator farm in Hot Springs is a large white rooster with two horns sticking out from his head, one on either side. The horns, which are of bone and about two or three inches long, give the rooster a most uncanny appearance.

This freak bird, unlike his brothers, has practically no spurs to use in his fights. Nature, after giving him these horns, apparently decided that spurs were useless, and they seem to be, for it is said that one look at his horns is enough to set the other roosters going in the opposite direction.

Stephen H. Hoppe (above), burglar and jailbreaker, is sought by the authorities for the murder of a policeman in Quincy, Mass., last October. Although Hoppe had his features altered by a facial surgeon, his fingerprints gave the police the clue they were looking for.

Rich Man's Lot Easier

The rich man today has an easier time of it compared to his brother who lived in ancient times when wealth was wholly in the form of land and houses and flocks, according to J. M. Campbell writing in the New Age Illustrated. "The rich man of a thousand years ago," he says, "was really the slave of his possessions. The more land he owned, the more houses, the more cattle, the more sheep and horses and goats, the more firmly was he tied; and the harder he had to work. But the rich man of today can turn his belongings into income-producing securities and go where he pleases. For a comparatively small sum he can rent a safe deposit box in which his stock certificates and bonds and mortgages will be safer than they would be if he kept them in his own hands."

Early Sealing Wax

Common beeswax was first used as a sealing wax, being mixed with earthy materials to give it consistency. The Venetians brought the Indian sealing wax to Europe. The Indian wax was made only of shellac, colored with vermilion or some other pigment, and this has been found superior to all other materials.

"Electricity!—

The Tireless Servant of America's Prosperity"

Says Lewis E. Pierson
President of the United States
Chamber of Commerce

"Many factors have contributed to the pre-eminent position of America's workers, but underlying everything else has been the fact that the American wage earner has had more horse power at his elbow than the worker of any other industrial nation."

WHILE the rest of the world wrestles with unrest and industrial strife, capital and labor in America work shoulder to shoulder on a basis that has resulted in higher standards of living than those enjoyed by any other people.

The most highly developed system of electric power equipment and facilities in the world has helped make this condition of affairs possible.

Because of the engineering skill and organizing ability which have gone into the expansion of America's power plants, there is available to American industry today more electrical energy than is produced in all the rest of the world combined.

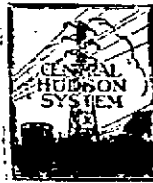

Nearly a million miles of transmission and distribution lines supply American industry with more than thirty million horse power. Expressed in terms of man power, this is equivalent to the potential service of 40 helpers for every worker in this country.

Increasing, as it does, the production capacity of the worker by forty fold, this great industrial force has improved the financial status of American labor approximately fifty percent in the last fifteen years, while at the same time, materially decreasing the cost of manufactured articles.

In the light of such achievement, it is obvious that the interests of American business and American family life will be served best by the careful preservation of the principle of individual initiative by which such accomplishments have been made possible.

He feared price raise on new Hupmobile Six

So this Minneapolis man bought at once to protect himself

What the new Hupmobile Six is doing in rolling up a tidal wave of buying is unique in all of America's motoring history.

Everywhere people see in it so much more than the price indicates that their sense of values has impelled them to buy earlier than they intended.

There are dozens of such cases in car dealers' records, and this one instance from Minneapolis is an example.

This purchaser bought as soon as he saw the car because, as he said, he couldn't see how such a beautiful car could be sold at the price.

He had not planned to buy a new car until a later time, but he feared that if he should wait, the price was bound to go higher.

Thousands of others, as well, have been literally swept off their feet by the dazzling beauty and the extraordinary value which came into being with the new Six of the Century and have said they could not resist buying.

Small Fruits in Lieu of Flowers Is Fashion's New Decree—Cherries, Currants, and Berries Seem More Fitting to the Mode of the Moment.

Paris—There are a great many voices raised in protest over the continuance in favor of the more or less untrammelled tail for those whose interests center in such things as flowers, feathers and ribbons naturally want their commodities promoted, yet in some cases are honest enough with themselves to admit that with the type of costume in vogue at the moment hats must remain simple.

How to introduce these things and have hats remain simple is a new problem, and one astute importer who is something of a style creator has evolved the theory that, while flowers as a hat trimming present difficulties, fruits are in character. In fact, fruit, especially cherries, is his choice for the hatter.

Girdles, or belts, which are in the front rank of favored accessories, are

The Small Feather or Fancy in the Back Is of Pheasant, charming when massed in fruit, and there are many delightful ways of using small fruit to advantage and without creating that unfortunate impression of being "all dressed up."

every eye that a current takes on from green to red. The hat itself was a close-fitting skull cap of pliable black straw. The cherries, dropping lower at the right side, fell from the center of the crown, completely covering the head and giving a very surprising effect.

The shoulder flower, as previously stated, has disappeared, but both shoulder and waist are likely to be ornamented by buckles or novelty pins, and in some cases a bouquet of flowers is introduced at the waistline.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pretty Afternoon Frock for Slender Figures.

6055. Printed or brocade silks, printed velvet, crepe satin and georgette are good for this style.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. A 16-year size will require 3 1/2 yard of 27-inch lining, 3 1/2 yards of figured material 25 inches wide and 5 1/2 yard of contrasting material 35 inches wide, for facing on vestee, cuffs, and underfacing on cascade. The width of the dress at the lower edge is 1 1/2 yard.

A pattern of this illustration, mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1928 Book of Fashions showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 20 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Climbing Waistline Is Alarming Many Women

Women whose waistlines are no longer of Venus de Milo proportions view with growing concern the upward and inward trend of belts and girdles which every day become more obvious in Paris.

Normal waistlines are the general rule now for costumes with flaring silhouettes. Even straight silhouettes are sometimes broken by a pulled-in belt placed well above the hips. Despite the prevalence of the higher-waisted dresses it is usually the slender women who wear them. The others are waiting for style trends to force them to it.

Discouraging Mr. Mouse

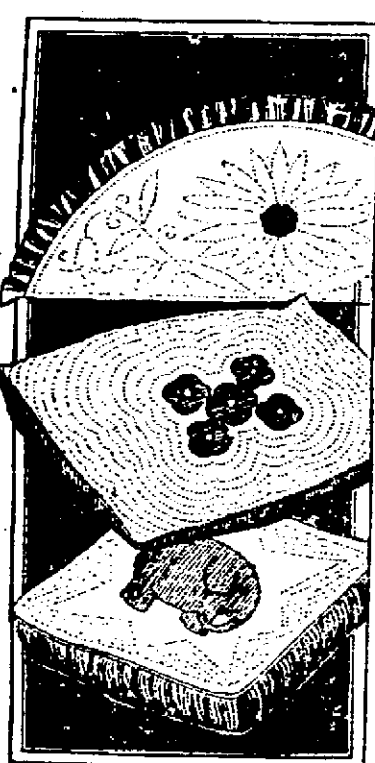

Holes that appear to be Mr. Mouse's entrances should be filled with putty mixed with mustard and broken glass. They are not so apt to storm their way through this mixture.

Empty Flour Bags Make

Catchy Cushion Covers

No woman ever yet complained of having too many cushions. Here are a trio that were made for hard, everyday use and that are especially suited for the bedroom, nursery or sun room. They are inexpensive, easy to make and have the great advantage over fancy silk taffeta ones in that they can be put in the tub and washed as soon as they get soiled.

The material used for these jolly-looking pillows was simply empty flour sacks, bought for a few cents each from a local baker. They were made ready for use by ripping out the chain stitching and removing the inked stamping. This last was done by covering the spots with lard or soaking for several hours in kerosene and then washing them out in lukewarm water.

The old-fashioned quilting stitch which is enjoying a revival right now was used for two of the pillows. It is simply a running stitch, using rather heavy mercerized thread. The moon-shaped pillow has a center motif of appliqued chambray with a ruffle to match. A variation from the quilting stitch is to follow the outline of the design with rickrack braid, taking a rather large stitch into the goods and into the braid at each point. The larger pillow has boxed sides of the same contrasting material as the center, and has corded edges.

Nursery pillows are very useful. Almost any child appreciates having a pillow all his own. This one has a large elephant cut out of gingham and appliqued. The ears and features are worked in outline stitch. The sides are boxed but not corded. Other nursery pillows that meet a warm welcome are cut out in the shape of elephants or rabbits and then stuffed with cotton wadding.

Any small pieces of cloth left over from making these cushions can be used in making pot holders, bean bags, bibs, book covers and a variety of other small, useful articles. There need be practically no waste to the flour bag.

Honor Accorded Physician

During the American occupation of Cuba, following the war with Spain, Maj. Walter Reed, of the United States Medical Corps, demonstrated that both ordinary malaria and deadly yellow fever were spread by the bites of mosquitoes. In recognition of this contribution to marking the army hospital in Washington was given his name.

BEAN HOLE BEANS

They have a unique way of baking beans in the logging camps of the Maine woods. They bake them in the ground!

The big round-bellied bean pot is filled with the flavor-rich ingredients—lots of brown sugar, molasses and prime sugar-cured pork. Then it is put to bake all night long in the "bean hole"—an oven in the ground.

This gives the finest baked-bean flavor known. A blend of forest fragrance, pungent wood smoke, fresh earthen oven.

And now this same wonderful woods flavor is reproduced for your own table. In Bean Hole Beans! You'll be delighted with this new achievement in flavor. It's so different! Enjoy it today. Ask your grocer to send you two or three cans.

Guard Against "Flu"
With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Better than a mustard plaster

SOME WOMEN
ALWAYS ATTRACT

You want to be beautiful. You want the tireless energy, fresh complexion and pep of youth. Then let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets keep your system free from the poisons caused by clogged bowels and torpid liver.

For 20 years, men and women suffering from stomach troubles, pimples, listlessness and headaches have taken Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a successful substitute for calomel, a compound of vegetable ingredients, mixed with olive oil, known by their olive color. They act easily upon the bowels without griping. They cleanse the system and tone up the liver.

Keep youth and its many gifts. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. How much better you will feel—and look. 15c, 30c, 60c. All Druggists.

Better Yet

Two boys were discussing sport. "How high can you jump?" asked one.

"About four feet," replied the other.

"What can you do?"

"Five feet," came the prompt reply.

"How about the long jump?"

"Ten feet. What can you do?"

"Eleven feet. What's your time for the hundred?"

But the other lad was a bit suspicious by now, so he replied: "Four seconds better than yours."

Another Way to Do It

A minister preaching his Sunday morning sermon was aware that a large number of his congregation were not listening to his talk. During this hour the minister stepped to the platform and said, "Dr. Van Cleave, the church is on fire."

The minister deliberately closed his Bible, saying, "Very well, William, thank you. Perhaps you can wake up the congregation."

Woman Favored Secession

"Civil War and Reconstruction in Alabama" says that in 1861 the women were well informed in all questions of the day "and especially in the burning sectional issues that affected them so closely. They were strongly in favor of the secession after the event, if not before; they were even more unanimous than the men, feeling that they were more directly concerned in questions of interference with social institutions in the South."

Old Roman Empire

Thatcher and Schwill, in "Europe in the Middle Ages," say: "In the Third century the Roman empire extended from the Atlantic in the west to the Euphrates in the east; from the Sahara in the south to the Danube, Main and Rhine on the north. Britain also (modern England) had been added to this territory. Since the beginning of the Christian era the boundaries of the empire had not been greatly enlarged."

Indian Girl Confesses
in Strange Murder Case

Daughter of Big Mouth
Charlie Says Her Sweetheart Begged Her to Shoot Him

ALTURAS, CAL. (I-N)—
"I killed him. Put me in jail."

With these words Cassie Turner, Pit River Indian maid, finally confessed that she murdered Bob Deculte, white man.

The confession was made after the Indian girl tried to place the blame on a Mexican known as "Chief," but she broke down under severe cross-examination by District Attorney Oscar Gibbons and confessed that she alone killed Deculte.

"He asked me to marry him, and I said I wouldn't do it," the Indian said, after she had been taken to jail.

"Then, if you won't marry me, kill me," Bob said.

"Shoot me through the heart," I said, "Bob, I can't shoot you," and he said, "Take another drink and you can."

"I took another drink and shot him."

"I was drunk. We both drunk. We only playing. I no want to shoot Bob."

The Indian slayer is the daughter of Big Mouth Charlie, one of the famous Indian doctors of Northern California. He was shot to death fourteen years ago. His killer was never caught.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 23 (AP).—Stock prices started upward today after an early period of irregularity. The buying movement, which started in the oil group, soon spread to the steel, motor, merchandising, public utility and specialty issues. Bear traders continued to ferret out weak spots, forcing a sharp decline in Continental Baking A on fears for the safety of the dividend, and in some of the southern railroad shares.

Wall Street took a bullish view of the reported decision of Federal Reserve authorities to oppose legislation to restrict brokers' loans. The weekly steel trade reviews reported some irregularity in that industry but estimated a gain of 7.6 per cent in pig iron production in February as against an increase of 6.4 per cent in the preceding month, the gain being accounted for by the increased operations of United States
Steel Corporation subsidiaries.

Strength of the oil shares was believed to be based on the announcement that Secretary Work was seeking the cooperation of governors of oil-producing states in an effort to secure uniform legislation for oil conservation and on unconfirmed rumors that important favorable developments were pending in Mexico.
Active oil shares were bid up 1 to 3 points.

Midland Steel Products preferred and Kresge Department Stores preferred each soared 9 points. Spear and Company preferred 7, and International Silver, International Telephone, Union Carbide and a few others advanced 3 to 5 points.
Montgomery Ward rallied from a low of 127 1/2 to 131. Montana
Power from 156 1/2 to 162. Green
Cananea Copper from 115 1/2 to 121 1/2.

Atlantic Coast Line broke 4 points to a new 1928 low at 167 1/2 and Louisville and Nashville sold off 2 points to its former low of 149.
Seaboard Air Line common sold down to a new minimum at 15 1/2.
National Lead, Bayuk Cigar and Mullins Body also were conspicuously heavy.

RAINBRIDGE COLBY GETS

NO VERSAILLES DIVORCE

Versailles, France, Feb. 23 (AP).—
Rainbridge Colby, former American secretary of state, has been refused a divorce from the former Natalie Sedgwick by the Versailles Tribunal.
The court refused to grant the degree on the grounds that the residence of Colby in France had not been sufficiently established in accordance with the French law.

State Will Run Desousing Plant

Two Great a Financial Burden for San Diego County to Carry. House Rest Station Will Now be Operated by State of California.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 29.—The state of California today took control of the "desousing" plant at the international border between San Diego and Tia Juana.

The "desousing" plant is a street where American visitors returning from the Mexican resort may be "desoused" for a few hours. They will be in condition to drive their automobiles. For several years it was maintained by San Diego county, which was forced to abandon it because of lack of funds. The new arrangement of the state will maintain two "inspectors" there and will meet all expenses of operation while the county will maintain the buildings.

The station is equipped with a cell for those who resist detention. When the condition of drivers is such that a few hours in detention will not clear their senses they are to be taken to San Diego for more protracted recuperation, as will others who are not in condition to drive by the time the border closes at night. The state will maintain guards for their automobiles at the border station.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Washington.—An actor who was getting married in Uncle Sam's Capitol today that the husband need not support the wife will be liable to a sentence of five years in the house of correction if he does so desired by Representative William C. Hammer of North Carolina. His bill to defame divorcees is now in the Senate.

New York.—Up rise Robert W. Bell, chief director, nephew of Alexander Graham Bell, and Josephine Hatfield, actress, who is Mrs. Bell, to deny they have separated. They are happily married, but have separate establishments, because one works in the day and the other at night.

Peking Marriage for bachelors and divorce for married men are forbidden by Marshal Fung Yu-Hsiang, "the Christian general." His reason is that some of the modern Chinese bachelors are so attractive that romance is displacing enthusiasm for the revolution.

New York.—The dean of American painters is a bridegroom at 89. Edwin Howland Blashfield has married Miss Grace Hall, 58, painter, writer, and lecturer.

YOUNG MARRIED WOMEN'S CLUB PROGRAM FOR MARCH

A most interesting program has been worked out by the program committee of the Young Married Women's Club of the Y. W. C. A. for the month of March. On Thursday, March 1, will be held the second meeting of the Leather Goods class. Those who have finished their work in this will spend the afternoon at bridge. On March 8, the Home Making Class will be held with Miss Nellie Davenport. This meeting will deal particularly with party suggestions for luncheons and teas and will prove helpful to every member of the club. On March 15, a musical afternoon will be held. Mrs. Allan Hanstun is in charge of this meeting and each member of the club will be allowed to bring a guest. On March 22, there will be bridge and on March 29, a speaker, to be announced later. New members of the club are always welcome.

WOMAN'S BENEFIT ASSOCIATION ELECTIONS OFFICERS FOR 1928

At a special meeting of W. B. A. Review, No. 398, held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday evening, the following officers were elected for this term: President, Flossie Reynolds; vice-president, Mary Nichols; acting past president, Elizabeth Drautz; chaplain, Lena Crosby; recording secretary and treasurer, Violet Van Deusen; lady of ceremonies, Sadie Kelly; sergeant, Nettie Ritter; inner hostess, Anna Kohler. Alice Wilber was recommended for financial secretary. The next regular meeting will be held in Mechanics' Hall on Monday, March 12, at 8 p. m. sharp. Mrs. Geneva M. Spencer, district deputy, will be present to explain the new plans of insurance the association is writing, also the European cruise of the order to take place next year. All members are asked to be present.

Entertainment at Rifton.

There will be an entertainment in Mechanics' Hall, Rifton, N. Y., Friday evening, March 2, at 8 o'clock. A two act play will be presented by the Seekers' Class of the Methodist Episcopal Church of New Paltz. The program will be interspersed with several fine musical numbers. This will be an evening of real enjoyment. Refreshments will be served at the close. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

P. T. A. Food Sale.

A food sale will be held at the Rose & Gorman store, North Front street, Saturday, March 3. It will start at 3 p. m.

WILBUR TEAM TO PLAY AT CHICHESTER FRIDAY

Friday evening, March 2, the Wilbur boys' and girls' basketball teams will travel to Chichester where they will meet the teams representing that community. The bus, Miss Kingston of the New York line, will leave Lynch's lunch room at 6:15 and the central post office at 6:30 o'clock. Fans will be accommodated, who wish to make the trip to see Wilbur play. Dancing will be held after the games with music by the Wilbur Serenaders.

The Chichester team, which won 15 out of 16 games this season, is expected to have tough going with its opponents. Wilbur will be represented by Black, McCardle and Lynch, regular players, augmented by three Red Shield players, Jorce and Merritt, star forwards, and Hyatt for center.
